POSTAL ROUTES IN SINKIANG

In the following tables, a post-office substation is an office next in rank to a third-class post office; a post station is an office next in rank to a post-office substation -- it is also used for changing horses and as a rest house for mail carriers; a mail-deposit station is an office where mail is received only -- no other postal transactions, such as selling stamps, etc., are carried out.

A sketch map of the postal routes listed in the tables is appended.
